Sitting Pretty
Yes, We Have Snobs
100,000 Men Discharged
A Lady Vice-President?

Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

PRESENTLY Mr. Coolidge's convention will be the candidate for Vice-President. No news until then. The platform will be an elaborate amplification of the American sentence: "We are sitting pretty."

Republicans count on Democrats, their wet-and-dry, Klan-or-Klan trouble, to make the certainty of Republican victory doubly certain. That's their attitude.

You will get another view from New York soon. That will be a real convention—for styles.

HAVE WE Anglomaniac snobs in the United States? Yes, we have. A Miss Green, of New York, marries Prince Viggo Christian Adolph Georg, son of Prince Valdemar of Denmark. City editors who know exactly what the public wants, pay little attention to the wedding. If it had been an English Duke, even of second class, the event would have been advertised ten times as much in our pure democracy.

WORKING MEN should note that in one State alone, New York, one hundred thousand men have been discharged from their work within a few weeks.

This bad sign, only temporary, is to be hoped, demands thought.

Leaders that advise workmen for the workmen's good will not encourage too many strikes at this moment. There might be too many employers willing to lay off men.

MRS. GENEVIEVE ALLEN, of San Francisco, suggests that some woman be nominated for Vice-President. It isn't necessary to say what old politicians think of that. Nevertheless, going politicians will live to see things in politics turn round.

The time hasn't come yet, however, for, strangely enough, at this moment more women than men would be elected at the place of a woman on the Presidential ticket.

CONCERNING the alleged new cure for cancer, remember that Dr. Glover, the discoverer, guarantees nothing, and regrets publication given prematurely to his work. There is, unfortunately, no ground for giving too great comfort or assurance to unfortunate cancer victims.

Their best hope is in the statement of the great surgeon, Mayo, that science is "getting close to a cure" and even now can take 60 per cent. of all cases if cured in time.

Don't neglect a small growth, surface sore or persistent sore, however trifling.

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT reports the worst crops in many years. That's bad news for those who eat the crops, but may mean better prices for farmers not able to make a living recently.

The Chicago Board of Trade expects higher prices for grain, and with the wheat crop cut more than forty million bushels something ought to happen.

MEN THAT deal in money, as others deal in shoes, corn or tobacco, are money's cheapest and most complacent. "Call money" was lent yesterday at the lowest price in years, 2 per cent. Gentlemen gambling in stocks could make more money than the United States government.

STEEL MEN are not cheerful either. Orders for steel are the lowest in ten years. "Unfilled orders of the big Steel Company in one month, from the May 1st to the last of May, dropped 69,325 tons.

BUT NOTHING seems to bother Henry Ford's business. He sold 200,000 cars and trucks in May, besides selling 300 trucks a day, and breaking the record in the sale of Lincoln cars.

THE LINCOLN sale, from the Ford point of view, is nothing, only $65 in a minute. What would be the effect if Ford should do with his Lincoln cars what he did with his cars? forcing it into quantity production by cutting the price to $100? He can do that, of course, if he wants to.

ARRIVES DEBARKS IN CONVENTION FOR BORN

TO TRY BOY SLAYERS FOR FIRE IN AUG. 4

Prosecution Wins First Skirmish in the Chicago Murder Case; Lads Plead Not Guilty

Chicago, June 11.—State's Attorney Crowe won his first skirmish for an early trial of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Frank, when the trial was set for August 4.

Both boys pleaded "not guilty" when charged with the slaying of Frank. Mr. Crowe demanded a speedy trial, asking July 15 as the date, but Attorney Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach of the defense objected.

Judge Caverly then fixed July 21 as the date for the trial, to dispose of preliminary motions and set the trial for August 4.

CHANGE OF VENUE.
A hint that a change of venue might be added later was seen in Attorney Darrow's objections to the early date, when he declared that there was no man in Chicago who would say that the case had not been prejudiced. Publicity would prevent a fair trial, he declared.

The defense also declared that State's Attorney Crowe had made public statements that he would hang the two prisoners. Crowe denied having made any statement to the effect of the plea.

The largest crowd ever jammed into the courtroom witnessed the arraignment. Fifteen extra deputies were on duty.

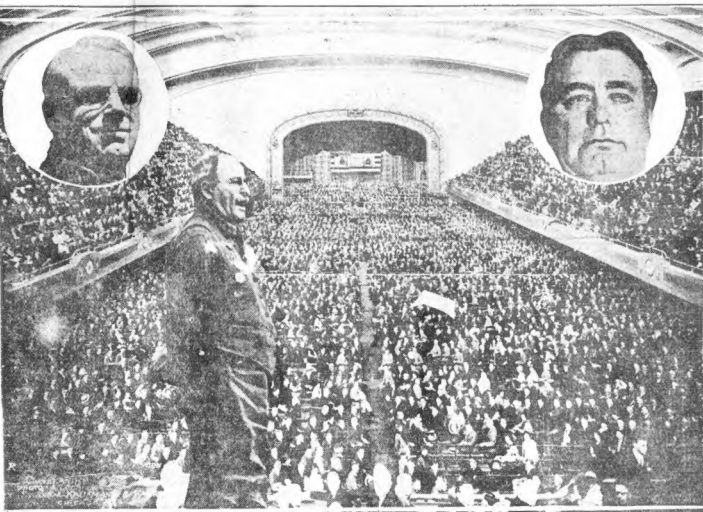

NEITHER EXCITED.
Informed last night that their names were on the arraignment call for this morning, neither Leopold or Loeb manifested any concern.

"It is my birthday," Leopold remarked. "Quite an event to have happen on a fellow's birthday, especially his nineteenth."

Continuing his inquiry into the mental condition of the youths, the State's Attorney's office has subpoenaed nearly a hundred newspaper men who worked on the Frank story to give whatever evidence they gathered and their impressions as to the sanity of the pair.

A number of students of the "Not Guilty" plea.

CONVENTION IN ACTION AT CLEVELAND

Chairman Mondell, at Republican Convention, Urging Republicans to retire from Congress the administration policies, and to elect in November a Congress Republican in principle, as well as name, Frank W. Mondell, permanent chairman, opened the seventeenth convention session today at Cleveland. In faces at top on left, William S. Kenyon and William E. Borah, mentioned in the Vice-Presidential fight.

SUSPECT R. I. CHILD SLAIN

Woonsocket, June 11.—Belief that murder of an innocent baby girl has been perpetrated in North Smithfield in furtherance of a clandestine life affair has aroused Rhode Island.

Following arraignment today in district court of Mrs. Viola Mitchell Aiken, the child's mother, and James Graham, youthful farmhand, both were held in heavy bail for a statutory offence, pending investigation of the disappearance of Mrs. Aiken's child.

Three-year-old Viola Aiken disappeared from the North Smithfield house where her mother was employed on May 24.

Today in Police Court, Town Solicitor Edward Walling asked that $25,000 bail be set for Mrs. Aiken and Graham. He stated that a more serious charge might be lodged against the pair.

Discovery of what is believed to be the little one's blood gave rise to the belief that the daughter of Mrs. Aiken had been murdered.

Convention Bulletins

Cleveland, June 11.—Party leaders decided today to hold a session of the convention tonight. Such a session had not been on the program, but delay in preparation of the platform made it impossible to present it at this morning's session.

Cleveland, June 11.—President Coolidge probably will be asked before night by party leaders for an expression of view regarding the Vice-Presidential nomination.

Conferees among the leaders during the forenoon developed little or no unanimity of opinion, as was of those high in the councils of the party expressed it. "We are ready to be bound."

EARLE BROUGHT TO HUB WITHOUT GIRL

Charles Earle, with a three-year-old girl, was brought back today from Troy, N. Y., by Inspector Cornelius J. King of police headquarters.

PLATFORM MAKERS ROW ON KLAN ISSUE

Cleveland, June 11.—Heated argument over the inclusion of a Ku Klux Klan plank in the platform of the Republican party broke out early today while the drafting committee of the convention was in session. Members debated in loud voices the advisability of touching the subject at all, taking a middle of the road stand or opposing the Klan openly.

The majority of the committee was opposed to taking an open stand against the Klan.

At one time the platform builders apparently faced a deadlock. There was much shouting and thumping of tables.

The plank finally adopted read: "The United States stands for the rights of all citizens, and opposes the Ku Klux Klan."

The opposition was led by Senator Peter A. B. Wideman of South Dakota. "This plank will irritate the Klan," said Senator Wideman. "I propose we either fight them or let them alone."

INGRY AT EASTERN CROWD

Northwest Delegates Join to Force Man From Beyond Mississippi on Ticket

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 11.—The Republican convention at another brief session today professed a permanent organization, cheered President Coolidge and party regularly, and then recessed until 8 o'clock tonight, when it will reconvene and adopt its platform.

A large proportion of the delegates did not want to recess and were heard to cry out "no" when the question was put.

Chairman Mondell, however, declared with a loud bang of the gavel that "the eyes have it," and the convention adjourned.

Cleveland, June 11.—A dramatic eleventh hour effort to swing the Republican national convention entirely away from any vice-presidential candidate picked by the conservative Eastern crowd of administration supporters was launched today just before the convention met.

It was engineered by a group of delegates from Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and the Dakotas, who served notice on the Easterners that they did not want Herbert Hoover or James C. Harbord, but favored someone of the stripe of Judge William E. Kenyon or Senator William E. Borah who is close to the needs of the agricultural West.

The Northwestern delegates met in the Hotel Winton the morning in a general session. The Winton is blocks away from the Cleveland Hotel, where there was an all-night meeting of Cabinet officers and Eastern Senators, who narrowed the race down to Hoover, Harbord and Curtis.

The meeting in the Winton was more than merely blocky away from the Cleveland crowd in spirit.

When the delegates were introduced, the Northwestern delegates met in the Hotel Winton the morning in a general session. The Winton is blocks away from the Cleveland Hotel, where there was an all-night meeting of Cabinet officers and Eastern Senators, who narrowed the race down to Hoover, Harbord and Curtis.

BANDITS GET 27 PACKAGES OF GEMS

New York, June 11.—Ten armed bandits today held up a United States customs truck, knocked the driver unconscious and escaped with twenty-seven packages of precious stones which were being transferred from the general postoffice in West Thirty-third street to the jewelry stores on Washington street. The holdup occurred at the corner of Twelfth street and Sixth avenue.

FEAR MISSING RHODE ISLAND CHILD IS VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

field house where little Viola's mother was employed.

Harvard medical experts will determine today whether the blood is that of a human child of a three-year-old child.

Today Mrs. Kough made grim accusations against her married daughter—accusations which have astonished the police and inspired them to a careful search for the body of the little child.

Mrs. Kough said: "This daughter of mine—she can't bear to tell, but I know she had a crazy checked-out case who left the home place. Nickle My heart was broken when she told me that the worst had not the married a fellow by the name of Allen and I thought she was down. No use.

SEPARATED.
settled down and things all right. Then they separated for months ago. She had the right to tell, but I know she left her husband, John I, in March four months ago. She took her children, and several, Viola, there, and a infant of eighteen months, went to the farm of Joseph in North Smithfield. It was in police eye she first met Allen. The couple were often seen. The young mother perched on the housework at the Mowry place.

The authorities do know this. That Graham, working in a field, was severely joined by Mrs. Allen. In the doorway her younger children played happily in the sand.

WHAT OFFICIALS KNOW.
Then came Mr. Mowry with the story of the mysterious disappearance of pretty little Viola. Mrs. Allen was questioned.

Stoutly she insisted that the child had been kidnapped by the child's father. Her oldest child, John, aged seven, said that two men drove up the road leading to the house. They stopped the car. One of the men, so young Allen told Chief of Police Albani, left the car and spoke to him. "He gave me a nickel. Then he took Viola and took her in the automobile and went away," she added.

CHANGED STORY.
But the Allen boy changed his story after close questioning. "What I said about the automobile is wrong," he told the police chief. "James Viola went off by herself into the woods. This nickel? Oh, I found that on the ground here."

No time was lost in starting a hunt for the missing body. A posse of citizens and a troop of boy scouts went into the woods searching for the baby. John Allen, Viola's father, was found in Cranston. He is employed on the estate of Mrs. Joseph Anderson. He readily consented to talk and was surprised and horrified appar-

Insane Woman Had $9000 Hidden in Mattress

A pillow with filled with bills of all denominations amounting to about $9,000 by concealed under a mattress of a bed in a Newton home for more than a month without being discovered, according to Dr. George M. Kilne, commissioner of mental diseases.

The money is the property of Mary Kane, sixty years old, a resident of Newton, who has been committed to the Westboro Hospital. Negotiations now are under way for the woman's return to Ireland, where her only known relative, a sister, resides.

Dr. Kilne said: "The money was discovered by an agent of the department following her commitment and was turned over to the State pending the appointment of a guardian by the courts."

By the news of the baby's disappearance. He was closely guarded as to his whereabouts on May 24, the day the child left the North Smithfield farm. In short order Allen convinced the authorities that he was far away from the Mowry farm on that day. The police were satisfied.

Four ministers and a dozen women members of the Olive League, including Ellen Mason of Boston, were conspicuous at the trial.

Budget Has Reduced Federal Operation 20 Per Cent.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 11.—Today for the first time in the history of this government the executive really has control of the government's financial expenditure, General Herbert M. Lord, director of the United States budget, said today.

Acting under the direction of the President, the budget bureau has succeeded in materially reducing the cost of Federal operation. The budget director said, citing that three years ago, of the total cost of government in the country, 80 per cent was chargeable to Federal and 40 per cent to local government, while now only 40 per cent is chargeable to Federal government against 60 per cent for local.

PLANS FOR N. H. BRANCH TO ASHMONT

Counsel for Elevated Says They Are Endorsed by Boston Officials

In compliance with an act passed by the Legislature, the War Department, counsel for the Boston Elevated, today submitted to the Department of Public Utilities plans for the proposed rapid transit line over the Shawmut branch of the New Haven from Willow avenue in Dorchester to the Ashmont station.

The plans have been arranged, Harman said, to allow the New Haven road the opportunity of running along freight trains over the existing carrying cut and supplies to factories and business firms in Milton without interfering with the rapid transit system. They were endorsed by Chairman Thomas F. Sullivan of the Boston Transit Commission and by Commissioner of Public Works Joseph A. Houtch.

Edwin W. Burnstead of Dorchester appeared in opposition, saying he could see little value in the proposition.

NEW FORMULA CURES 40 P.C. OF CANCER CASES

Based on Germ Theory, Announces Dr. Field of the Radium Institute

Chicago, June 11 (AP)—Announces that a new chemical formula has cured 40 per cent. out of all cases of cancer, was made today by Dr. C. Everett Field of the Radium Institute of New York.

Dr. Field, who is president of the Association for the Study and Cure of Cancer, meeting with the American Medical Association.

The formula, Dr. Field said, was based on the theory that cancer is a germ disease. It had been worked out because the X-ray and radium and other previously known forms of treatment was inadequate, he declared.

Subjects ranging from gland transposition and resuscitation include the harm of face powder, rosin and jazz were on the program for today's sessions.

The gland theory was called mysterious by Dr. Clarence A. McWhorter, New York surgeon in an address prepared for delivery before the surgery section. Rules for resuscitation after electric shock were presented by Willis MacLachlan of the National Electric Light Association.

Professor H. N. Cole of Western Reserve University declared he was increasing use of continuing the use of the National Prohibition Act as conflicting with the use of harmful ingredients in cosmetics. It also urged the repeal of such sections of the National Prohibition Act as conflicting with the use of harmful ingredients in cosmetics.

The general use of jazz was blamed for the increase in the prevalence of gonorrhea by Dr. F. W. Newton, who declared half of the women and girls of the Middle West are afflicted.

'I'M NOT CANDIDATE.' HOOPER SAYS AGAIN

Washington, June 11.—Secretary Hoover after a conference with President Coolidge today vigorously reiterated a previous declaration that he was not a candidate for the Vice-Presidency.

"My position has not changed one iota," he said.

Asked if he would accept the nomination if chosen by the Republican convention, he replied: "You are asking me the same question you asked Senator Brandegee the job has not been offered to me."

"I'M OLD AND TIRED AND WANT REST," SAYS SEN. LODGE

DENIES HE WAS MADE TO QUIT

Veteran Statesman's Eyes Flare at Intimation That His Recent Votes Were Cause

By KENNETH CLARK.
Cleveland, O., June 11 (I.N.S.)—They must all go over the hill sooner or later.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, whose name for more than two score years has been synonymous with leadership in the Republican party, has decided to retire voluntarily from the high councils of the party to which he has devoted so much of his life.

"I am an old man. I am tired. I want rest."

Thus spoke Lodge today, explaining his refusal to accept any post, other than as a delegate, in this year's Republican National Convention.

"President Coolidge is by far the finest man that the Republican party can nominate for the Presidency. There is no question about that. I shall be happy to do anything that he or any of us want to do, but for myself, well, I have been honored with every position that the party could bestow since 1890, and now—" he paused and gazed absently away, his eyes blue of late days—"now I want to get away from it all, not to be constantly, but from the work, the terrible physical strain of the work in convention."

Some of those who profess to be as the inside of the happenings in Cleveland, claim that Lodge was forced to retire because the party chiefs and the Massachusetts delegation wished it so.

"Why, then," one had no hesitations in explaining to whom he referred as "they" who were for his ouster, before the party organization was begun, that I wouldn't accept any official position," Lodge said. "I want to be left out of the convention, and then, when I am merely re-elected that when I arrived in Cleveland."

And when Lodge says he is tired because he is only one of many than a thousand delegates, not permanent chairman, or temporary chairman, or member of the executive committee, one of which posts he has held, except in 1912, for nearly a quarter of a century, his appearance, his countenance, his smile, his jollity in greeting old friends, who had helped him "put over" party nominees, here stronger proof.

Lodge sat in a comfortable lounge chair in the top floor of his hotel just around the corner from the Cleveland headquarters. Below was the lake front.

"There is no ill feeling between the members of the Massachusetts delegation, President Coolidge or myself," he mused. "Everything is harmonious."

And then after a moment's silence he arose and walked to the window. It seemed as if he weighed the words for as much as in his mind.

"I don't care that he is engaged his fingers carelessly as if dismissing all mention from his mind. It is, however, it is not that for a position in the convention."

HIS EYES FLARED.

"Well, Senator, they say that you were forced out because of your votes against President Coolidge on the Thurman bill, and the bonus, and your stand on Japanese exclusion."

His eyes flared up. He seemed the Lodge of other years, he who directed the lower fight against President Wilson's League of Nations, he who always had a decisive voice in shaping the party's destinies.

"That is another question. I am not one who can change his vote, a vote I believe to be right, just because somebody else does not agree with me. I voted for the bonus at the start, and I voted to override President Harding's veto."

Time and time again Lodge emphasized that there was nothing that resembled a "bribe" between President Coolidge and himself.

HALL DEVOID OF ANY PICTURE OF COOLIDGE

Dramatic Entry of Portrait When He Is Nominated.

Suggested

Cleveland, O., June 11.—The Republican Convention is being held in an auditorium that is entirely devoid of decoration except for a large American flag across the rear of the platform, and old portraits of Lincoln, Roosevelt and Harding.

There is not another banner in the place.

And whether through accident or forgetfulness, there is not a picture of President Coolidge to be seen anywhere. It may be that the presentation of his portrait has been reserved for a dramatic entry at the moment he is placed in nomination.

Massachusetts delegates have the post of honor in front, at the right of the presiding officer, while direct by across the aisle are the delegates from Vermont, the President's native State.

The present Summer has witnessed a return to popularity of the resistance coupled amplifier. The features of this type of audio amplification are:

The drawbacks are:

- 1—Less amplification per stage than with the transformer coupledifiers.
- 2—Necessity for higher g_m H battery.

It is probable that the same g_m of amplification may be obtained at the same cost with resist-coupled as with transformer-coupled audio-frequency amplifiers. And the latter is considerably less in the race coupled, so that this again nearly balances up.

Resistance coupled and amplifiers are returning to popularity. The circuit for one is shown above. Parts marked are: R, 100,000 ohm fixed, non-inductive resistances; R1, one or two megohms; R2, $\frac{1}{2}$ or 1 megohm; R3, $\frac{1}{4}$ or $\frac{1}{2}$ megohm; R4, 5,000 to 12,000 ohms (optional); R5, rheostat or fixed tube filament resistance; C, mica condenser, .002 mfd.; C1, fixed mica condensers, .0025 to .006 mfd. A complete amplifier using Daven Resistors and Resisto-Couplers is shown above.

Many innovations in radio broadcasting, which will break all radio records, will feature the national NEA convention to be held in Boston the entire week of July 6.

James M. McDowell, chairman of the radio committee for the convention, will announce there, the arrival of each delegation, give a brief history of each and also a sketch of each drill team as it passes in review at the grand lodge officers.

Throughout the week the radio will be in constant service and play an important part in the exercises. The radio committee announces that Edward Stokes has turned over their radio station WNAC, to the Elks for the entire time of the convention.

By THE LISTENER

He discovered a way last night which one cannot help but be impressed with the super-quality of the music. The music was playing during the first part of the evening, and while at the house he listened to his radio set. We each in a pair of phones, and he let us in on the tuning.

The fact that his set was down at that time, and that the notes came from the ceiling, and the air of mystery about tuning in that made me imagine it was in a strange land. Different notes came through, and the nature of the program we shifted to newer fictionally, without having any idea that what we were listening to was the sweetest of all, the music we heard.

It wasn't until the number 10, that "J.P." was heard, and the narrative is indicative of the listener feels who is a long time from Boston, and hears a new program.

The Boston American people easily took first honors last night on the radio bills. The excellent reproduction which is so peculiarly apparent with this orchestra, requires no comment. A very swell violin solo "Sonata Pathétique" was played by Mr. William Dodge, leader of the musicians. In hearing Mr. Dodge play the violin, one can help but feel his mastery of the instrument.

At 11:30 yesterday morning opening announcement of the Cl...

land Convention was made. Judged by the number of stations mentioned in the program, it was clear the whole country was to be in on it. I was fortunate enough to be in WNAAC just prior to the first broadcast. The telephone booth operators were testing out the circuits. Cleveland, I had an expert in the grapher in WNAAC's operating room, and I was busy taking down instructions from Cleveland, and passing them on to the announcers. I studied.

If the radio audience could see what goes on behind the scenes during one of these broadcasts, they could see the magnitude of such an undertaking. Anyone with an active imagination can easily picture the future, and the exact time of the broadcast, and the effort in promoting peace and understanding, not only in our country, but all over the world.

About the only thing available in my district outside of WNAAC,

Mayor Curley will give Father's Day a boost tonight when he delivers a talk over Station WBZ on "Responsibility, Morality and Character."

His Honor maintains that fathers have been getting hanged for some centuries now, instead of father setting up a new religion. Day said, receiving adulation complacently. It is the Mayor's opinion he should get out and assume the burden of bringing down the old religion especially—up with a view to accepting life seriously but with a smile.

PRINCESS SUES HER SISTER FOR SLANDER

ASKS FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

New Action by Mme. Lippe-Lipski, Former Boston Girl, Against Mrs. Schroeder

New York, June 11.—Princess Nicholas von der Lippe-Lipski, he of bathtub fame, is in again. In the limelight, that is.

His wife, the Princess, has brought suit. She was formerly a Boston beauty.

It will be recalled her first suit was brought after she discovered her titled husband ornamenting the bath tub in the apartment of her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder, No. 419 West One Hundred and Tenth street.

It was for $100,000 for alienation of affection, which was defeated by Mrs. Schroeder, and the entire amount awarded the Princess by a sheriff jury.

Mrs. Schroeder then had the case removed from that court, and this time is pending.

Now the Princess has filed a summons in a new suit for $100,000 damages against her sister, who is now residing at No. 210 West Eighty-fourth street. It is said the suit is for libel and slander. In a former action she was a verdict of $100,000 after finding the Princess in her sister's bath tub.

It is the contention the Princess, daughter of an old Westphalian family and one-time aide to the czar, is in the hot dog frame, where bath tubs are few and far between.

GASTON MEANS ASKS REMOVAL OF TODD
Washington, June 11.—Removal of Hiram C. Todd, special assistant to the Attorney General, as prosecutor in the prohibition case against Gaston B. Means, in New York, was asked today of Acting Attorney General Seymour by Means in a letter to the Department of Justice. Means said Todd was prejudiced against him. The two clashed at hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee, where both were called as witnesses.

AUTOIST FREED IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE
John N. O'Leary, of No. 103 Laramie street, Roxbury, charged with manslaughter, was found not guilty in the Roxbury Court today and the case was dismissed. A machine driven by O'Leary killed Mary Maranda, of No. 162 East Cottage street, Roxbury, on Southdown street, South End, on May 30. The court ruled no probable cause.

PORTO RICO WANTS SELF-GOVERNMENT

EX-BOSTON BEAUTY IN NEW LAW SUIT

PRINCESS LIPE-LIPSKI

She now accuses her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder, of saying this and asks $100,000 damages. In a former action she won a verdict of $100,000 after finding the Princess in her sister's bath tub.

In the flivver they drove back to Harvard and Waverley streets, where they pulled an entrance to the Holy-Mann auto accessories shop.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON TOUCHINESS

By Dr. Frank Crane

ELINOR GLYNN makes a good point in her story that those who are touchy are people who are not quite sure of themselves or their position in life.

There you have the whole matter in a nutshell. To be touchy is a sign of bourgeois.

If you are at the top or the bottom, and feel sure of yourself, you do not mind criticism. You either ignore it or are grateful for it and profit by it.

Most of the people of earth are more concerned with their position in life than they are in doing the work that is set before them. That is the reason why most people are touchy.

It is because they value station in life more than life itself. Another thing that makes for touchiness is the impossibility on the part of most people of being unselfish.

They construe everything in terms of personality. If a companion is a little late at the rendezvous, Jessie construes this to be a personal slur intended for her.

Like almost all disagreeable qualities, touchiness has its root in vanity.

If we were anxious always to be of service, if we did not set little traps to catch our friends, if we were more honestly and sincerely occupied in doing our work and in rendering the pay for it, there would be less of touchiness in the world.

As it is, there is a good deal of it and most people do not like it.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

The opinion prevails that the New England manufacturer is a rather hard-boiled person, but hundreds of them keep men on their pay-rolls and make no use whatever of them. Unbelievable? Read!

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

There's a man in Austria who wants to buy the something you make, but are not selling. This tells you how to get in touch with him—and with hundreds more, just like him.

There's a Market for "Yankee Notions," Minute Men, in Lands Beyond the Seas!

Just before the glorious boom days of five or six years ago a certain New England manufacturer placed a highly perfumed soap upon the market and, although he thought pretty well of his new product, he was quite taken off his feet by the fervor of its reception.

Those were the days, you remember, when the elevator man wore silk shirts, two-dollar ties and fifteen-dollar shoes.

He also bought the new soap.

But our soap-maker was and is a man of discernment. He knew that this prosperity was too good to last.

So, he began asking himself a question much like that in the old song, "What will Poor Robin do then, poor thing?"

And looking about him for an answer, our friend the soap maker found it in the possible development of a foreign market.

He turned, just as you or any other New England manufacturer may turn, to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce.

Some among the six hundred experts housed in the great Commerce Building at the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 19th Street gave our friend exactly the helpful suggestions he needed, and when the boom collapsed, in 1921 and '22, he had established outlets for his new soap in two or three widely scattered foreign markets.

A considerable part of our highly perfumed New England soap is sold today in Cuba, more of it in Chile, and more yet in Java.

When the sugar industry is a bit flat in Cuba, the nitrate business is likely to be doing well in Chile, and if it happens that both sugar and nitrates are off it is extremely probable that trade in Java will be looking upward.

The fact is, in any event, that the passing of the elevator man's silk shirt and the departure of the fifteen-dollar shoe meant little or nothing in the business life of a far-seeing New England soap-maker.

Another case, of similar significance, is that of a man in Bangor, Maine, who manufactures oilcloth.

Making use of the impartial and reliable information contributed to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce by more than a thousand trained and vigilant observers in all parts of the world, our friend in Bangor has brought his business to a point where 40 per cent of his outlet is sold abroad. Is local trade depressed in Maine, and elsewhere in the U. S. A.? The Bangor man need not worry!

These two fact-stories, of what has been done, are brought to the attention of Minute Men today because the subject of Foreign Trade is first on the Order of Business for New England.

"Oh, well," somebody objects, "we tried selling cotton goods in the Argentine, in 1914—and they didn't seem to go."

A lot has happened since 1914.

A lot has happened in the last six months, for that matter, and every week, every day indeed, witnesses a strengthening of the information service which is at your command through the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Dr. Julius Klein, director of that bureau, received from a Canton, Massachusetts, manufacturer a few days ago an illuminating letter from which we are permitted to print this extract:

"We have been interested in your department only sixty days and to date have received inquiries or orders from thirteen different foreign countries. While trade is a little slack at this time of year for local business, your assistance in the export line has been of considerable aid to us."

The big or little New England manufacturer who turns to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the present hour of business stress, trial and tribulation is merely taking advantage of something that belongs to him. The entire up-keep of the bureau, including the activities of its representatives in foreign lands, is paid for out of the Income Tax. In other words, these experts, a veritable regiment of them, are on your payroll; it is up to you whether you make use of their knowledge and industry.

It is a regrettable fact that a number of important New England establishments which Copyright, 1914, by the Boston American Co.

"We of New England are not asleep to the situation which confronts us. We feel that it is possible for New England to regain her old-time leadership.

"Foreign trade, it seems to me, offers us one of the greatest single channels through which this may be accomplished.

"The same obstacles which hamper the expansion of New England's trade intercourse with the interior of this country serve to emphasize the advantages which she enjoys because of her opportunities to develop foreign trade.

"The seaboard is easily accessible. We have opened up a foreign market in the boom period following the war eventually, by withdrawing from the field, threw away the good will they had established.

Especially was this true of some firm new to the export trade.

"If we must curtail," these gentlemen said at the first sign of retraction, "we will begin, of course, by cutting out our foreign agencies."

Let us thank goodness that ALL New Englanders have not been so short-sighted. The soap-maker is one exception. The man who sells abroad 40 per cent of all the oilcloth he can make is another. The concern at Canton is a third conspicuous example.

It was, perhaps, due to men like these that, with many of her cotton mills closed and most of her shoe-shops on half time, Massachusetts and other New England States were able to make such a good showing in the value of their exports for the first three months of the present year.

For the first time in the history of Government trade statistics an attempt was made to show the relative position of the different States in the never-ending struggle for foreign trade, and in view of the prostrate condition of textiles and shoes, these six States appear to have come off surprisingly well.

The figures have been printed, but perhaps many great natural harbors, abundant water power, unexcelled transportation facilities.

"More than 70 per cent of our population lives and carries on its industrial activities within a distance of fifty miles from the seaboard.

"Boston holds second place in the United States in volume and values of imported raw materials and finished materials used by our industrial plants.

"What our forefathers once did, we can do again, by looking overseas."—HOWARD COONLEY, President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, to the National Foreign Trade Council.

this view of the report will be new, interesting and encouraging:

State	Rank in Area	Rank in Population	Rank in Value of Exports
Massachusetts	44th	6th	12th
Connecticut	46th	20th	23rd
Rhode Island	48th	38th	34th
New Hampshire	43rd	41st	39th
Maine	38th	35th	41st
Vermont	42nd	45th	46th

There is nothing to be ashamed of in this showing.

But—

IT CAN be made much better.

IT WILL be made much better when big and little manufacturers go after Foreign Trade in the one promising way which is wide open to every one of them.

That way is through the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce and, specifically, through its weekly Commerce Reports and its occasional confidential bulletins, telling What the World Wants.

It is not necessary to go to Washington for this information, for the Bureau maintains a New England office at No. 1801 in Boston Customhouse Tower. The district manager is Mr. Lynn W. Meekins, whose staff of eight young men includes some who are particularly well versed in the industries of New England.

There will be no "bunk" in what this Federal Bureau tells you about Foreign Trade Opportunities, nothing imaginative, nothing but fact. Here in Boston, for example, what Mr. Meekins and his associates can place before you is (1) valuable information concerning specific openings in foreign markets, and (2) a list of desirable foreign agents who seek to establish relationships with American business-houses.

There are 202 American consuls in Europe, 85 in Asia, 23 in Africa, 33 in South America, 11 in Central America, 63 in North America, 23 in the West Indies, 17 in Australasia.

They are all at your service, Mr. New England business man, whether your product is ham or electrical machinery, corsets or safety-pins. And the way they work for you is something like this:

A foreign buyer steps in at the office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in—let us say—Havana.

"I want to buy glazed kid and sole leather," he says.

"Glad to serve you," replies the Commerce man in charge, "fill out this blank, please, and when we have made the usual inquiries we will put you in touch with the right people."

Inquiries of this nature came to the Department of Commerce this week from 37 foreign countries!

Automobiles, motorcycles, aeroplanes, lumber, printing-office appliances, wall board, steel hoops, industrial machinery, herbs, chemicals, novelties, roofing materials, textiles, shoes, radio accessories, office safes and railway equipment were inquired for.

The numbers prefixed to the "opportunities" listed below—and submitted here merely as a sample—refer to confidential information on file in the district office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

To obtain this confidential information it is necessary only for American exporters to apply to the nearest office, giving the number or numbers of the inquiry or inquiries in which they are interested:

Azores	10452	Weaving machinery for gray sheeting
Canada	10494	Plumbing and heating supplies, first class.
Costa Rica	10533	Wall boards for partitions.
France	10464	Flams, free from borax, from smoking.
Germany	10518	Motorcycles.
Germany	10539	Wooden pegs, best white.
Ireland	10520	Taxicabs, light, low horsepower.
Java	10506	Boots.
Java	10507	Cotton goods, especially cheap under-shirts.

What happens at this end of the line is that the interested New England manufacturer, calling at or writing to the District Office of the Bureau, is given the bank reference and cable address of the foreign buyer who has asked for quotations.

And there you are.

By the end of the present month of June the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce will have handed out more than 400,000 individual lists of foreign dealers in search of American goods.

Take a little inspiration, if necessary, from the experience of the great International Harvester Company, which in the past year sold more than half its product of agricultural machinery in the foreign market. If there had been no such foreign outlet for the Harvester Company that great organization, in view of the present state of the farming industry in this country, might have faced a receivership.

You don't have to be a "big fellow," an International Harvester nor yet a Gillette Razor, to enjoy the facilities of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and break a way into the Foreign Market.

Co-operating with the district office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in Customhouse Tower are the Chamber of Commerce of Providence, Springfield and Worcester and the Manufacturers' Association of Bridgeport.

If you are situated in one of these centers you need only get in touch with your own organization in order to get all the information which is on hand in Washington and Boston.

New England isn't done. New England isn't quitting. New England isn't lying down.

All together!

Let's show them!
